New Issues-

We discussed at some length yesterday the recommendation of President Harmson that Congress shall propose to the popular in West Virginia. So is several State legislatures an article of BLAINE. But neither BLAINE nor ELamendment to the Federal Constitution rowing that electors of President and Vice-President shall be chosen on a general ticket. We showed that the Legisla- ties and yet disdain to tollow in their footture of Michigan, in providing for their steps when they undertake to lead where election by districts, had only exercised a Democratic principles do not prevail. The power confided to the several State legisla- Post may dismiss all its fears in this betures by the Constitution of the United half. If the Democrats do not elect the States. We also expressed doubts as to next President of the United States it will not be the fault of the gallant, steadinst. of the States-the requisite number-could be induced to ratify such an amendment. We also warned the southern States to think twice before giving their consent to a constitutional provision which would have the effect of destroying the last vestige' of States rights possessed by the several States.

We would add to what we have already said upon the subject that the people have not yet been heard from on this important subject. No person or paper has, so far the Academy of Medicine, and the result of as we know, suggested that they may take it into their heads to leave the Constitution as it is and decide this question at the ballot-box next November. They may conclude that it is not necessary to have a new article of amendment added to the Federal Constitution in order to settle a question which they can without difficulty settle for themselves by incorporating into the next platform of each of the two great parties a plank either to favor of or op-posed to the proposed change in the butter, &c., &c. method of choosing electors of President and Vice-President. Why not? The ed by most of the cities of this country people might be in favor of choosing the and of Europe. We, too, have talked electors of President and Vice-President about them for years, but have taken no on a general ticket, and yet afraid to un-dertake to force the several States thus to laws. But now that the Chamber of Comdertake to force the several States and the Academy of Medicine have choose their electors. Why may we merce and the Academy of Medicine have not have a new issue next fall? What she wants to reason to apprehend any Federal interto appreliend a reduction of their relative advance her interests and develop her prosperity tength in the United States Senate. For. my what we will, and theorize as we may, there is a growing disposition on the part of the people to have United States senstors chosen by popular vote; and we may rest assured that whenever this measure is carried into effect the small States will have to content themselves with a strength in the Senate in proportion to their population. And whenever either of these measures shall come jup as an issue before the people, the question of choosing presidential electors will also come up, and we shall have another new issue in the pro-position to abolish the electoral system altogether and choose our President and a stricting of any State for the choice

As we have intimated more than once, we do not think that the recommendation of President Harrison will prove to be a popular one. It cannot stand alone. It must and will be joined with other propositions, as we have suggested. But at the same time the people do not like the Michigan policy of districting the States for the choice of presidential electors. We believe that this policy would be condemned if the people were afforded an opportunity to express their wishes in regard to the matter. Like Ensign STEBBINS, they are in favor of the law but opposed to its execution-we mean they desire every State to have the right to choose its electors as they will, but they are opposed to the exercise of that right in the manner in which it was exercised by Michigan last winter.

Therefore, it may become necessary for the two parties to take position next fall upon the question under consideration. It is an important one, as we have shown. Its consideration may mark an era in the history of our free institutions.

The Danville's Discharged Men-The reduction of the force of workingmen on the lines of the Richmond and Danville system is deplorable, but it is impossible that it should have been made through any ill-will to the employees. It is no doubt the result of the Terminal Company's recent financial troubles, Probably it is hoped by this cutting down of expenses to save enough money to pay off some of the accruing indebtedness, default in which would be fatal to the interests of the system. The complications in the affairs of the Terminal Company are not readily comprehended by the general public, but it is certain that it has had some great difficulties to contend with, and it is believed that arrangements have now been made which promise better things for the fu-

Once set solidly on its feet, it ought to become productive of profit, and the sooner it is freed from Wall street influences the sooner this will be possible.

Why Norfolk should have but two delegates and Richmond fee under the present apportionment and census is a question that we are not able to answer. We know of no reason for it.—

Richmond has not been given greater representation than she is entitled to. We did not have quite enough population to give us five delegates, but Richmond and Hebrico had far more than enough to give
